

Survivor-Made Goods

Thistle Farms:

<http://thistlefarms.org>

Thistle Farms is a powerful community of women who are healing from prostitution, trafficking and addiction. It employs more than 45 survivors through social enterprises which include Thistle Farms Home & Body, Thistle Stop Cafe, artisan studio, and Thistle Farms Global. Products include bath & body, apparel & accessories, and home & garden.

Rethreaded:

<http://www.rethreaded.com>

Rethreaded's mission is to unravel the effects of the sex trade by fighting business with business on a global and local level. They provide safe, viable, and dignity-giving work to survivors of the sex trade allowing them to be who they were created to be. Products include accessories and home goods.

Beza Threads:

<https://www.bezathreads.org>

Beza Threads helps bring redemption and freedom to the enslaved, providing rehabilitation and job training to give them a sustainable future. They support organizations and former slaves by bringing their products to the marketplace. Products include scarves hand-made in Ethiopia.

Her Future Coalition:

<http://www.herfuturecoalition.org>

Since 2005, Her Future Coalition has provided jobs, education and shelter to over a thousand survivors of slavery, child marriage, and other human rights abuses in India, Nepal, Cambodia and Thailand. Products include earrings, necklaces, bracelets, rings, and fine art prints.

Destiny Rescue Shop:

<http://www.destinyrescueshop.com>

Destiny Rescue is an international Christian based, non-profit organization dedicated to rescuing children from human trafficking and sexual exploitation. They help keep many from entering the sex trade through various prevention programs, ensure justice for those that have been wronged and have raise awareness. Products include earrings, necklaces, bracelets, rings, and other various accessories.